

Dutchmen RV Manufacturing Plant Closing In ID

The Associated Press

BURLEY, Idaho (AP) — A recreational vehicle production plant in Burley is closing next month and moving its work to Pendleton, Ore.

The Times-News reports (<http://bit.ly/17XvieC> [1]) Indiana-based Dutchmen Manufacturing Inc. announced last week the Burley RV plant will close on Nov. 15, affecting more than 160 employees.

Dutchmen Vice President David Thomas says the employees who work in production have been offered the opportunity to relocate to Pendleton.

In a news release, the company said it is moving the work to the Pendleton plant because it offers newly retooled production lines, room to expand and the advantage of on-site vendor relationships.

Dutchmen also announced last week it is closing its plant in Clackamas, Ore., and moving that work to Pendleton. It employs 163 workers.
